Into the Millennium

The 2000-2001 school year was one for the ages. National headlines took center stage with one of the most controversial Presidential elections in our nation's history. Local politicians were in the hot seat, the public school system was in the news with its landmark desegregation case, and LSU Athletics enjoyed one of its best seasons ever. Through it all, the LSU Law Center has continued to prosper and move forward...into the new millennium.

DEDICATION

After a quarter of a century of outstanding service to the LSU Law Center, Gladys Dreher is retiring at the end of the 2000-2001 school year. Affectionately known as "Miss Gladys," we dedicate this Yearbook to her as a small token of our appreciation for the services she has rendered to the Law Center and thousands of its students. During the past twenty-five years, Gladys has served--always cheerfully and efficiently--in a variety of roles which have impacted heavily on the quality of life and studies at the law school. From 1976 to 1986 she served as secretary to The Louisiana Law Review, providing continuity, guidance and comfort to the students who edited and contributed to the publication. For the past fifteen years, she has helped pioneer and develop the Law Center's technological services, and retires as Director of Technology and Instructional Support Services.

While filling these important roles, Gladys also supervised word processing operations for instruction (with the sometimes thankless task of keeping the faculty happy!) When special projects demanded special talents, Gladys was usually the one who was up to the task. She has coordinated and administered special accommodations for final examinations and for the LSU Trial Advocacy course which provides third year students with an experience similar to that provided by NITA (National Institute for Trial Advocacy).

In recent years, Gladys has served as administrative assistant to the Faculty Personnel Committee, handling all of the logistics of the sometimes overwhelming task of interviewing and recruiting prospective faculty. Through it all, Gladys has maintained a warm and friendly relationship with the students and faculty, and she has exhibited the competence to meet any challenge.

Gladys retires after a total of thirty-five years of service to LSU, beginning on the LSU campus in 1964 and continuing through the end of this school year, except for a two year period in which she "retired" to devote her time to her husband, Kerwin ("Kerry") and their children, Kerwin, Jr. and Frank. We wish Gladys well, and we know that she will enjoy her retirement with her husband, two children, and three grandchildren. Their gain is the Law Center's loss.
